TEST YOUR TECH

52% Only 52% of people say they believe the technology in their lives is properly tested before it is sold or used.

82% 82% of people say they are concerned about technology being released without it first being independently tested by industry experts.

50% 1 in 2 people say that technology fails them once a week or more.

98% 98% of people say that reliability is an important factor when it comes to using technology.

61% When asked what the most important reason for tech to be reliable is, 61% of people say that safety or security is their main concern.

95% 95% of people say that some form of safety-accreditation is important in providing them with confidence that tech is reliable.

52% 52% of people say that using the latest and newest forms of technology is important to them.

50% 1 in 2 people say that tech with a high price point is not an important factor when it comes to providing them with reliability assurances.

90% 90% of people say that independent testing is important in assuring them that tech is reliable.

6% Only 6% of people say that they believe technology will be less reliable in the future.

www.testyourtech.net